

Modern mindset theory for humanising transformation

Leadership Academy for 21st Century leaders and change professionals

PROGRAM: FOUNDATION CERTIFICATION

Spring-Summer Schedule, 2023

Brought to you by

Foundation Certification

Program Summary

If you are someone who wants to explore a more human-centred and sustainable approach to change and transformation and want to hit the ground running, our Foundation Certification is for you.

The Foundation Certification program is designed to help change and transformation professionals understand the rudiments of Modern Mindset Theory and a framework and approach to support strategy and design within any business transformation projects and programs.

The program provides you with a high-level insight and understanding of the business case (why) for humanising transformation and then a practical overview and understanding of the methodology and approach (how). This certification gives you a broad understanding enough that you can bring some of these basics immediately into your own practice.

This program is also great if you are already practising humanity-centred transformation or using mindset techniques in your delivery and want to sense-check thinking and techniques. This program is also great if you aren't quite ready to go all in and build your professional profile around humanity-centred and sustainable business transformation.

This program is designed to be a foundation-level program focusing on breadth rather than depth. If you are keen to explore Modern Mindset theory and approach humanity-centred transformation in more depth, for your own practice and development or in your current project or program you may want to explore our Practitioner Level certification that focuses on practice alongside understanding and application.

If you are a business mentor or coach you may also want to consider Mentor-Level certification which trains you in the use of the Modern Mindset Profiling tool used by thousands of leaders all over the world to assess and guide leadership mindset shift.

Executive Summary

For over 10 years we have been supporting leaders and change professionals in the world of transformation to navigate the human side focusing on two key lenses: An inner lens, that increases awareness and adopts a focus on mindset development and shift. And secondly coherence, between business as usual, work and life, the future and now.

When we understand our mindset, alongside our purpose and our place within change we are more confident, more resilient, and more likely to engage in innovation, participate in change and be role models to help others do the same.

When we are able to bring coherence between strategy and culture, business as usual and transformation and coherence between our intellect and our emotions we further increase confidence, resilience, engagement with innovation and participation at a systems level.

This is modern mindset theory and how we humanise transformation.

Two audiences crucial in ensuring this is the systems landscape change and transformation programs design are those who lead strategically and those who lead operationally.

We see leaders from all sectors and geographies find themselves at the helm of transformation because of their past success and performance. Much like non-executive directors, we are awarded our roles based on our experience and performance, however, what will ensure we succeed requires different skills, different thinking and often a different outlook.

This program, much like the globally popular Finance for Non-Financial Managers program aims to provide leaders who find themselves at the helm of transformation to understand and develop the confidence and capability to successfully navigate transformation and bring others along with them on the journey.

Transformation for Non-Transformation leaders is a fundamental program for any leader involved or driving the strategic vision and execution of transformation in business.

"We are delighted to bring the work we have delivered across the public and private sectors to a wider audience through our practitioner academy and community. Modern Mindset theory and our collaborative focus on humanity-centred transformation are vital ingredients in securing a future where we can thrive."

Who we are

For over 10 years Adapt2Digital have been supporting leaders and practitioners to succeed in transformation. Working with thousands of leaders and change practitioners across private, public and third sectors to embed modern mindset into leadership and change practice:

- Putting humanity at the heart of transformative
- Capturing hearts with transformational visions
- Developing modern mindsets across leadership teams
- Supporting change professionals design and deliver humanised transformation to accelerate success.

We have supported leaders and change professionals using mentoring and coaching, training and development and advisory products and services.

In 2017 we launched our professional certification training for practitioners leading change and transformation. Now we have qualified professional practitioners all over the world able to humanise transformation and bring a modern mindset into an organisation's change methodology.

Six years on, with hundreds of case studies and thousands of human stories – we are bringing the framework for humanising transformation and modern mindset to change practitioners all over the world. Opening the framework out more widely is an exciting moment, it is a recognition of the work and courage displayed by our customers over the years, the belief they have shown in the purpose of our work: to bring humanity back to business and work using modern mindset theory.

Today we are training and developing confidence and competence in professionals' ability to confidently humanise transformation leveraging modern mindset theory.

Alongside our training and development products and services, we are also the home of Leadin4D.com. A digital community where leaders and professionals believing in a better future leveraging digital and data for the good of humans and humanity unite to share, learn, experiment and support.

The whole course pushed me to think differently about my leadership and work in complex transformation. Especially how I am role modelling for others.

I feel like now I have a structure and foundation to take my career to the next level.

This has been a truly enriching and rewarding professional experience - so much more than I ever thought it could be when I embarked on this nearly a year ago. What a journey, and what incredible shift I have made when I look back.

I now literally am an evolving modern leader! this framework infuses into every element of my practice.

"This course has been truly life changing for me professionally. It has woken up my brain and re-engaged it in areas that have been dormant for too long and will undoubtedly make me a much better leader, transformation practitioner and mentor-coach

Supported by an established framework and approach

All our programs are supported and designed around The Dilyn Way™. A framework focussing on Modern Mindset theory and using these techniques to humanise transformation and accelerate success.

Shifting our identity (who we are) to embrace the full opportunity presented by the future requires a focus on humanity leveraging digital and data maturity. It is not digital transformation but a humanity-centred transformation we prioritise to achieve our desired results.

Mindset shift leads to identity shift. An identity that can keep growing, exploring, evolving, and expanding.

Living in a world that is defined by both the 4th and 5th industrial revolutions, transformation must be about WHO WE ARE as well as WHAT WE DO. This is the power of The Dilyn Way™.

The gift of the age we live in, is our ability to reconnect with humanity, leveraging the digital and data for good
